

Swiss Metadatabase of Religious Affiliation - Newsletter 1/18

Dear Colleagues

Welcome to our newsletter 1/2018 of the Swiss Metadatabase of Religious Affiliation in Europe (SMRE).

Our newsletter keeps you informed about the SMRE and its progress on a regular basis. Our topics of today:

Save the Date: Go Live of the SMRE on February 27, 2018

After years of work the long awaited output tool of the SMRE will go live on February 27, 2018. You will get more information by our next newsletter as soon as the tool is ready for you. For all those who are interested and those who are in the vicinity of Lucerne: We are clinking the glasses at the University of Lucerne to say thank you and to celebrate the Go Live of the SMRE.

SMRE Session at the EASR 2018 in Bern

The SMRE team is organizing a session at the forthcoming EASR Conference in Bern (17-21 June 2018). The title of our session is "Contested Religious Belongings in Europe. Membership, Practice and Identity in Comparative Perspective". For detailed information and for submitting your proposal see the official EASR website or the call on our website. Attention: the deadline for proposals is already next monday January 15, 2018. But it's very easy to submit a proposal: Go to the EASR website, (make a) login on the ConfTool, search our session and submit your (short) abstract with the idea of your contribution. We apologise for this late announcement, but we too learned about the acceptance of the session and the dead line only this week.
